AU REVOIR!

Milton Stiefel and Company take this occasion to thank all their patrons for their attendance at Ivoryton Playhouse during the season of 1938.

This is our last week this season. We expect to be back again in 1939 with even better entertainment than ever before. So it's "Au Revoir but Not Goodbye!"

And "You Can't Take It With You" winds up the most successful of Mr. Stiefel's nine years at the Ivoryton Playhouse . . . Joseph Pevney has been signed to play the leading role in the touring company of "Golden Boy," which takes to the road in a few weeks . . . Percy Helton will begin rehearsals next Monday in the new George Kaufman-Moss Hart play, "The Fabulous Invalid." . . Herbert Andrews has just been signed to design the twenty-six sets for the forthcoming musical, "Sing for Your Supper." . . Six members of this week's cast came to Ivoryton direct from long runs in the road companies of "You Can't Take It With You." . . They are, Ross Hertz, Sara Sherburne, Anna Karen, Walter Beck, Ruby Oliphant, and William Attaway . . . More than 35,000 people have attended the plays here this season . . . "You Can't Take It With You" was released exclusively to Mr. Stiefel for a stock showing, and will not be seen in any other summer theatre . . . Other plays that have been done at Ivoryton in the past while still playing on Broadway were, "Ah, Wilderness" and "Dead End". . . See you next summer.
